1. OBJECTIVES AND SCOPE

Impresa Tre Colli S.p.A. is a construction company, operating in many sectors, prevalently in excavations and ground handling to build industrial pipelines and particularly oil pipelines, gas pipelines and water pipelines.

Reliability and consistency being recognized in the course of time has permitted Impresa Tre Colli S.p.A. to expand its activity also in the work of mechanic assembly to realize completely oil pipelines and gas pipelines with relevant compression plants and pumping plants.

To diversify and extend its activity in other sectors of construction, Impresa Tre Colli introduced in 1980 a new plant to produce prestressed concrete precasted structures for civil and industrial buildings, sport complexes and large viability. The Annual Turnover of Impresa Tre Colli is based for 80% in OIL & GAS market, both in excavation works, transport and pipelines laying, both in the operations & maintenance sector of such works.

The Board of Directors believes that ethics in business management is a condition for its success and instrument for the promotion and protection of its image, key element as well as the reliability, fairness and transparency towards to all parties concerned.

For this reason, the Board of Directors adopted this Code of Ethics to regulate, through standards of conduct, the activity of the Company establishing the general principles to be respected in the entire organization.

1.1 OBJECTIVES OF THE CODE OF ETHICS

The Company is aware that a good reputation arising from the systematic application of ethical principles, encourages investment by shareholders, attracts the best human resources, promotes the relationships with commercial, business and finance partners, strengthens the reliability against creditors and establishes good relations with employees and suppliers; on the contrary, an unethical behavior compromises relationship of trust and may encourage hostile attitudes towards to the Company.

The purpose of this Code of Ethics is to define the commitments and ethical responsibilities to which the Company, its managers, officers, employees and consultants are required to direct their behavior while performing its activities; therefore, it outlines the profile of business ethics.

1.2 SUBJECTS AND SCOPE

The subjects of this Code of Ethics are all managers, employees and consultants of the Company, without exception, and all those who, directly or indirectly, permanently or temporarily, establish relationships or transactions with the Company and operate to pursue its objectives, as contractors, suppliers and service providers in general.

The subjects of this Code of Ethics are all managers, employees and consultants of the Company, without exception, and all those who, directly or indirectly, permanently or temporarily, establish relationships or transactions with the Company and operate to pursue its objectives, as contractors, suppliers and service providers in general.

The provisions contained in this Code of Ethics integrate the behavior that employees and contractors must observe in accordance with the rules of ordinary diligence which employees are required according to standard and contracts applicable with regard to employment relation. In no case the pursuit of company's interests, may justify a conduct contrary to the laws and rules of this Code.

In any business relationship, every counterparty must be informed of the existence and contents of this Code of Ethics, and they are required by contract to comply with them.

For this purpose, towards to third parties, alla the subjects of the Code, depending on their tasks, will pay attention to:

- properly inform them about the commitments and obligations imposed by the Code;
- require compliance with obligations directly concerning their activities;
- adopt proper internal and external actions, in case of non-fulfilment

This Code of Ethics is applicable to all geographic and operating areas wherever the Company operates.

1.3 STRUCTURE OF CODE OF THE ETHICS

The Code of Ethics consists of:

- general principles outlining the mission and main values of the Company taken as reference;
- criteria of behavior to be adopted by subjects operating in the name and on behalf of the Company, in their individual behavior;
- additional rules that must be followed, in accordance with the general principles, to prevent any risk of unethical behaviors resulting from the management of relations;
- criteria for the implementation and monitoring of Code and the applicable sanctions in case of non-compliance.

2. MISSION AND VALUE OF A COMPANY

In its own activities Impresa Tre Colli has identified certain reference values which guide the behaviour of all subjects acting on its behalf, to ensure fairness in the conducting of company's business and activities, to protect the property and the image of the Company and the expectations of all stakeholders.

Honesty, fairness, integrity, transparency, impartiality, confidentiality, respect and safeguard of the environment and protection of health and safety in workplace are values leading company's actions which are essential values to achieve its economic, productive and social objectives..

The consistent implementation of corporate values assumes the cultural, technical, operational and ethical contribution of each subject; it is expressed in the exercise of responsibilities and powers attributed by the organization, both in individual and in collective behavior.

The first scope covers those situations requiring in an almost exclusive form the personal commitment in applying ethical principles; the second one covers the behaviors referring to the whole relations with interested parties involving individuals.

2.1 RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

With respect to decisions that affect relationships with internal and external parties, the Company considers as essential bannig any discrimination based on age, gender, sexual orientation, health status, race, nationality, religion and political opinions.

Impresa Tre Colli SpA supports and respects human rights, in accordance with the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.

2.2 THE VALUE OF HUMAN RESOURCES

The company recognizes the centrality of human resources as a principal factor in the success of any company, in a framework of reciprocal loyalty and trust between employer and employee.

For this reason, the Company protects and promotes the value of human resources to improve and increase the competence, experience and heritage of knowledge of each employee and partner, also thanks to educational initiatives.

The working relationship is carried out in compliance with relevant collective contract and social security, tax and insurance regulations for the sector; for the establishment of an employment relationship the employee is required to sign, together with the contract, the commitment to respect the principles defined in this Code of Ethics.

In the processes of personnel management, decisions are based on criteria for assessing value, according to the merit system; the same principle holds for access to positions or roles.

In the case of corporate reorganizations, Impresa Tre Colli Spa protects the value of human resources by providing, if necessary, training and/or professional requalification.

Impresa Tre Colli promotes actions so that, in the hierarchical relations with employees, the exercise of authority does not become damaging to the dignity, competence and independence of the employee.

2.3 INTEGRITY OF EMPLOYEES

Respect for the physical and cultural well-being of the person is the ethical reference for the Company, which guarantees working conditions that respect the dignity of individuals and a suitable work environment; for such purposes Impresa Tre Colli conducts its activities according to such technical, organizational and economic conditions, in order to allow adequate accident prevention and a healthy and safe workplace, in full compliance with current legislation, by adopting all the necessary provisions.

The Company undertakes to diffuse and consolidate a culture of safety among its workers, developing awareness of risks and promoting responsible behaviour on the part of its collaborators.

2.4 THE VALUE OF REPUTATION

The Company is aware of the importance of its work and of the effects that it has on the economic and social development, for this reason it pays the greatest attention to balance its objectives with the general interests of the nation.

For this reason, the Company conducts its business in full compliance with local and national communities, associations, institutions, to acquire a high level of reputation that contributes to legitimize its actions in the community.

Good reputation and image of the Company are therefore an essential intangible resource.

Good reputation constitutes a key element of attraction for prospective shareholders and best human resources who have interest in operating with the company. It promotes relationships with trading, business and finance partners, and public and private customers. Pursuing the good reputation allows making and implementing decisions by mitigating potential elements of conflict, as well as to organize work in a climate of mutual respect, without resorting to authoritative interventions.

2.5 ETHICAL AND ENHANCEMENT OF INVESTMENT SHARE

The company is working with the aim to preserve and increase its value and promote the investment made by shareholders as long as it safeguards the principles of free and fair competition; for this purpose the company informs its actions to obtain competitive results rewarding competence, experience and efficiency. The Company and its employees must behave properly with regard to business management and relations with the public administration and private customers, any action aimed at changing the conditions of fair competition is contrary to the policy of the Company and is forbidden for any subject acting on its behalf.

5. IMPLEMENTATION AND MONITORING PROCEDURES

5.1 ACCEPTANCE OF CODE OF ETHICS

This Code of Ethics finds application in behavior undertaken by interested parties subsequent to its adoption by the Board of Directors. To this purpose, the Code of Ethics is available to all employees and partners of the Company and can be accessed via Internet to all interested parties.

By the adoption of the Code, the Company has established:

- all of the rules of behavior in internal and external relations, requiring their compliance by all employees, consultants and, to the extent applicable, by external partners;
- the principles of organization and management of the Company, aimed at creating an efficient and effective planning, implementation and monitoring system of activities so as to ensure ongoing compliance with the rules of conduct and to prevent its violation.

5.2 UPDATING

By resolution of the Board of Directors the Code may be amended and restated, even on the basis of the suggestions and instructions issued by the supervisory bodies.

Any revision and / or substantial change in the Code of Ethics should then be communicated to all persons and bodies concerned with the same procedures followed for its issue.

5.3 DELEGATION OF POWERS

Because of the structure and organisational complexity of the Company's business, it adopts a system of delegation of powers and functions which explicitly and specifically prevent the assignment of tasks to persons who do not have the appropriate abilities and experience.

In relation to the extension of the delegated powers, The Company adopts and implements an organisational and management Model which provide for appropriate measures to censure that activities are performed within the Law and are in compliance with the rules of conduct of this Code with an aim also of uncovering and eliminating any risk situations in a timely manner.

5.4 INTERNAL CONTROL SYSTEM

The responsibility for implementing an effective system of internal control is entrusted to the whole organizational structure and particularly to all individuals who perform at various levels, management responsibilities and control of the operating divisions and business functions.

Internal controls are all activities and tools required or useful to direct, manage and monitor the activities with the aim of ensuring:

- the defense of economy (efficiency and effectiveness) of operations, in accordance with strategies objectives and company policies, aimed at safeguarding the assets of the Company;
- the suitability of the information system, both for the components aimed at the drafting of the financial statements to be published, both those aimed at the preparation of internal management reporting;

- the compliance with the regulations applicable to the activities of the Company;
- the reliability and correctness of accounting records;
- crime prevention through the Organization and Management Model pursuant to Legislative Decree. No. 231/01.

Internal control processes are ensured by single Organisational Units and their respective directors.

All employees and partners, as part of the functions and activities carried out, are responsible for the definition and correct functioning of the control system.

Each transaction must be supported by adequate documentation to be retained, in order to allow, at any time, the checking of reasons and characteristics of the transaction and the exact identification of those who authorized, performed, recorded and verified these activities, at different stages.

Managers, employees and partners, each of them within their competences and duties, are required to strictly comply with the procedures, as well as the collaborative and full availability disclosures to the Personnel Manager and Supervisory Body which can perform all duties deemed appropriate, to ensure compliance with the Code of Ethics.

6. SANCTION SYSTEM FOR THE VIOLATION OF THE CODE OF ETHICS

6.1 RECOGNITION OF VIOLATIONS OF THE CODE OF ETHICS

Each office manager or organizational unit manager has to detect any violations by personnel in offices and organizational units, hierarchically and/or functionally to his dependencies.

Events and behaviors classifiable as violations of the Code of Ethics should be reported to the Head of Human Resources of the Company; he will undertake, where necessary, focused internal investigations

Individuals are obliged to inform the Supervisory Board of such violations.

6.2 INTERNAL INVESTIGATIONS

Preliminary investigation concerning a violation of the Code of Ethics aims to safeguard the objective nature of the analysis, but also the right of personnel involved to express their own counterclaims, in compliance with the provisions of art. 7 of Law no. 300 of 20 May 1970 and in the collective contract applied to the working contract, that is the applicable regulations, if different from the peripheral organizational unit of reference.

The preliminary investigation is carried out so as to avoid any form of retaliation, discrimination or penalty towards the reporting, also ensuring their anonymity and the confidentiality of the events reported by the same, subject to the obligations of law and the protection of corporate rights.

Where the investigation may demonstrate a violation or suspected violation, more than of the Code of Ethics even of the Model of organization and management in accordance with Legislative Decree no. 231/2001, the Personnel Manager is required to give prompt notice the Supervisory Body .

In such cases, the information to be sent to the Supervisory Body concern:

- any provisions and reports originating from police, or similar authority, from which you may infer ongoing investigations for crimes referred to in Legislative Decree no. 231/2001, even when against unknown persons;
- requests for legal assistance made by managers and/or employees in relation to the start of any judicial procedure dependent on them for the same crimes;;
